A Happy New Year to you, old faithful prospector! May you live long and prosper, and never have to make the long walk alone. May you have all the happy, healthy results of your labors, and never have to live on your handouts. May you have the satisfaction of knowing that you are working for something that you believe in and have faith in. May you have all the pleasures of the world, and never have to suffer for anything. May you live long and prosper, and never have to make the long walk alone. May you have all the happy, healthy results of your labors, and never have to live on your handouts. May you have the satisfaction of knowing that you are working for something that you believe in and have faith in. May you have all the pleasures of the world, and never have to suffer for anything.

The prospector's life is a study and a labor of love—nothing else. He has to work hard to make a living, and often has to live in the most primitive conditions. But he finds great satisfaction in his work, and the thought of the many dollars he earns keeps him going. He knows that the dollars will buy him the things he wants, and that he will be able to provide for himself and his family. He is a happy, contented man, and he is proud of his work as a prospector.

The prospector's work is not easy, but it is very rewarding. He has to work hard, and often has to live in the most primitive conditions.
